

January 6, 2021

Dear Valued Exhibitor,

Thank you for your continued confidence and support of Home Builders Association of St. Louis events. Unfortunately, the St. Louis Home & Garden Show scheduled for March 18-21, 2021 will not go on as planned.

The Show is being canceled because despite our best efforts and those of America's Center, the City of St. Louis will not currently approve an event plan with adequate attendance for a successful show.

While there is a possibility these conditions could relax between now and the show, we believe the responsible thing to do is cancel now before your show preparations begin. The HBA of St. Louis has been producing events for over 40 years and has always taken pride in producing quality shows designed to create success for exhibitors. To push forward with the show under the current restrictions would go against that tradition.

You will be receiving information in the coming weeks regarding refund options if you have made deposits. While this process is being organized please DO NOT send in your final payment for this event. If you have already sent a payment in, it will not be deposited without your consent.

The St. Charles Home Show at the St. Charles Convention Center is still on track for April 9-11. This will be the ONLY home event for the spring season. As you may know, our September Show in St. Charles was a success, so there is a high level of confidence that this event will be permitted to take place. There is minimal space available for the April St. Charles Show, so please let us know right away if you want to participate. You can sign up online through your exhibitor portal.

Your business is truly appreciated. We look forward to producing successful events for you in the future.

Wishing you a healthy and prosperous New Year!